

TrendONE stands for the worldwide research of micro-trends and innovations. With our worldwide network of scouts, we scan relevant sources every day in 22 different language regions for innovations, trends and best practice cases from a wide variety of industries. Our focus lies on intelligent marketing campaigns, new technologies, media and online innovations, as well as innovative business models and products.

From June 2011, we are looking for an enthusiastic

Intern for trend research for our Vienna office

Your duties:

- You will support the team in the research, identification and selection of micro-trends as well as in the preparation of Trendreports for our customers
- You will be given the opportunity to carry out market research and support our New Business Manager in the acquisition of new markets (Central and Eastern Europe)
- You will help to prepare presentations for our customers, and manage and update the customer database
- You will coordinate international customer appointments and business trips, as well as provide support in our administrative work

Your profile:

- Some practical experience in the field of media or marketing
- A strong customer focus, team skills and the ability to work under pressure
- Well organised and good communication skills
- Commitment to the job, plus the ability to work independently while remaining focused on targets
- Excellent German and English skills, while an understanding of Hungarian, Czech or Russian would also be useful
- Familiarity with Microsoft Office

We offer you a great deal of variety in this position, in an innovative working environment based at our office in Vienna. The internship will be remunerated and should run for a period of six months. You will also be given the opportunity to get to know our offices in Hamburg and Berlin, and offer the teams there your support. Please send your CV and cover letter, stating the earliest date when you could start, online only to Ms Kremer at: kremer@trendone.de.
